

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

About Google Book Search

Google's mission is to organize the world's information and to make it universally accessible and useful. Google Book Search helps readers discover the world's books while helping authors and publishers reach new audiences. You can search through the full text of this book on the web at <http://books.google.com/>

THE YEAR IN BOOKS

THE YEAR IN BOOKS

THE BOOKS OF 1912.

THE book production of the United States has for the past two years remained practically stationary, at a point marking a recession from the high figures of 1910. The slight further decrease this year is too small to be significant, but it should be noted that in 1912, for the first time in several years, the American book production fell below the British. This is almost certainly a temporary relationship, and it is not unlikely that 1913 will show a considerable increase of production over the year past.

Complementary to the decrease in number of titles issued in 1912, there has been—if we mean by “quality” the number of single significant volumes of enduring merit—a noticeable falling off in quality, as compared with 1911. In FICTION, particularly, the year compared unfavorably with 1911, though it should be remembered that the latter year was noteworthy for its fiction.

There has been, on the other hand, a notable recent increase in the production of excellent and vital books at cheaper prices, an admittedly commendable tendency. Well-printed, well-bound classics at “poor man’s prices” we have had for some years; now we are beginning to get similarly reasonable new books in various departments of knowledge. Of course, this is not a movement original with us, but a direct sequence of the cheap book movement in Great Britain; but, although we cannot claim originality in the movement, we can no less endorse it. Such series as the Holt Home University Library, the Dodge People’s Books, the Everyman’s Cyclopedia, which the Duttons announce, the 50-cent reprint non-fiction series of Macmillan, are but types and forerunners of what promises to be a very considerable growth.

For the first time in many years we may venture to point out signs of a literary renaissance. Both in POETRY and ESSAYS, 1912 had more and better offerings than in any year of the past decade. HISTORICAL writing apparently presents a falling off, for, with a few important exceptions, all our history seems now to be given us in the form of BIOGRAPHY—an interesting reflection, of course, of the popular demand. Again, as last year, SCIENCE seems almost an ignored field for popular exploitation, and SOCIOLOGY and ECONOMICS loom larger than ever in importance.

Mention should be made of a comparatively new science—EUGENICS—which, during 1912, sprang into public prominence, probably from the publicity given the first international conference on the subject. This prominence was reflected in a large crop of serious and generally excellent books. Mention should also be made of many particularly good offerings in AGRICULTURE, COUNTRY LIVING and HOUSE BUILDING AND FURNISHING. AVIATION, however, fell behind 1910-1911.

FICTION.

Most of the novels of 1912, it must be admitted, were merely average novels, the sort that may be loaned to careless friends without a pang. But to begin with the exceptions: one novel of the year which made a strong impression on those who feel the clutch of the “Minotaur” of modern life was “The Squirrel Cage,” by Dorothy Canfield (Mrs. Fisher), new as a novelist, but well known for her magazine stories. The “problems” of “The Squirrel Cage” are those that face almost all every-day people in every-day surroundings.

Basil King’s “The Street Called Straight” made its way at once to the top. That, too, is a story of Americans, perhaps of more recognized social prominence and the problems that come to them through financial wreck. Mary Johnston’s “Cease Firing,” sequel to “The Long Roll”; Gertrude Atherton’s “Julia France and Her Times,” the story of a woman who makes a worldly marriage and later becomes a suffrage leader in London; Mary E. Waller’s “Cry in the Wilderness,” with its scene in Canada, were other worthwhile books which show once more the tendency noted a year ago—that in the fiction field it is getting to be a case of places aux dames!

It must be admitted that a number of the best novels of the year were by British authors, for the most part authors from whom we expect fiction of the first order as a matter of course. H. G. Wells wrote an extraordinary novel in "Marriage"; Locke, in "The Adventures of Aristide Pujol," created an effervescent hero of no little charm; and the names of Arnold Bennett and Leonard Merrick were both in the year's list. G. A. Birmingham, discovered by the American people in 1911, was represented in 1912 by three more delightful, whimsical tales—"Priscilla's Spies," "The Major's Niece," and "The Seething Pot." Among other English novels well received here were "Between Two Thieves," by Richard Dehan, author of "One Braver Thing"; "The Lost World," a tale of fantastic adventure, by Conan Doyle; "Marie," by H. Rider Haggard; "Through the Postern Gate," by Florence L. Barclay; "The Life Everlasting," by Marie Corelli; "Christopher," by Richard Pryce; "Out of the Wreck I Rise," by Beatrice Harraden; and "Carnival," the story of a ballet girl, by Compton Mackenzie.

One of the first novels of the year, and also one of the best, was "Tante," by Anne Douglas Sedgwick, whom the United States can at least partially claim, the story of a beautiful and alluring woman, so skilfully hypocritical that she deceives even the reader.

To go back to the American novelists. Perhaps the most significant works of the year were "Stover at Yale," by Owen M. Johnson, an indictment of the social snobbery of the college society systems; "The Lady and Sada San," by Frances Little, a sequel to "The Lady of the Decoration"; "A Woman of Genius," by Mary H. Austin—the problem of a woman of temperament bound by the restrictions of humdrum life; "Fate Knocks at the Door," by Will Levington Comfort, author of "Routledge Rides Alone"; "Their Yesterdays," by Harold Bell Wright, with a popular appeal; "Riders of the Purple Sage," a Utah story, by Zane Grey; "Corporal Cameron of the Northwest Mounted Police," a tale of the Macleod Trail, by Ralph Connor; "A Romance of Billy-Goat Hill," by Mrs. Alice C. Hegan Rice; "The Wind Before the Dawn," in which Dell H. Munger pictures the life of the Kansas pioneers, especially the problems of the women; "Polly of the Hospital Staff," a bright little story by Emma C. Dowd; "A Hoosier Chronicle," by Meredith Nicholson, a story of Indiana life during the last fifteen years; "The Man in Lonely Land," by Kate L. Bosher, author of "Mary Cary"; "To M. L. G.; or, He Who Passed," an anonymous work, said to be the true story of a well-known actress; "The Net," an adventure story in Sicily and New Orleans, by Rex Beach; "The Hollow of Her Hand," the story of a widow who shields the woman who murders her own dissolute husband, by George Barr McCutcheon; "The Lady Doc," Caroline Lockhart's story of a Western woman doctor, thoroughly bad; and "The Melting of Molly," the humorous romance of a young, charming, but too plump, widow.

A feature of the year was the unusual number of excellent volumes of short stories; for instance, F. Hopkinson Smith's "The Armchair at the Inn"; Jack London's "Smoke Bellew"; "The Unknown Quantity," by Henry Van Dyke; "The White Shield," by Myrtle Reed; "Chronicles of Avonlea," by L. M. Montgomery; "It, and Other Stories," by Gouverneur Morris; "Buttered Side Down," by Edna Ferber, author of "Dawn O'Hara"; Zona Gale's "Mothers to Men"; and "The Amazing Adventures of Letitia Carberry," by Mary Roberts Rinehart. Three notable volumes of short stories by English authors also appeared. Arnold Bennett, whose fiction output has slackened (or, rather, the importation of his works has caught up with his pen), kept up to his standard in "The Matador of the Five Towns," a collection of diverse stories. "Whispers About Women" is probably the best work of Leonard Merrick, who is at last getting the appreciation he deserves. Gilbert K. Chesterton is the author of "The Innocence of Father Brown," detective stories, in which the mysteries are unsnarled by a little Catholic priest. From France came "Valserine, and Other Stories," sketched by Marguerite Audoux, author of "Marie Claire."

Besides the last-mentioned volume, other prominent works by foreign authors were "Atlantis," by Gerhart Hauptmann; "Eve; An Incident of Paradise Regained," by Maarten Maartens; "The Blood of the Arena," a story of bull fights, by V. Blasco Ibanez; "The Keynote," winner of the Goncourt prize, by Alphonse de Chateaubriand; and "Through Desert and Wilderness," also called "Through the Desert," an original story of the adventures of two children in African wilds, by Sienkiewicz.

BIOGRAPHY, MEMOIRS, CORRESPONDENCE.

While the list of biographical works was short, it contained, in 1912, several titles of importance. "Mark Twain—A Biography," by Albert B. Paine, long a personal friend of Clemens, took first place as an authorized and carefully complete work. Mary Antin's "The Promised Land," a remarkable presentation of what America means to the immigrant, by one of them, proved one of the most popular books of non-fiction of the year. General Jubal A. Early's autobiographical sketch and narrative of the war between the States, Gamaliel Bradford's "Lee, the American," and "Serving the Republic; Memoirs of the Civil and Military Life of Lieut-Gen. Nelson A. Miles," threw interesting light on the war-time period of the country.

Among the biographies of men of letters were "James Fenimore Cooper," the first adequate work of its kind, by Mary E. Phillips; "Robert Louis Stevenson in California," by Katharine D. Osbourne; volumes 5 and 6 of the annotated "Journals of Ralph Waldo Emerson"; "Letters of Sarah Orne Jewett," edited by Annie Fields; and "Lafcadio Hearn," by Mrs. Nina H. Kennard.

Among other noteworthy publications in biography were Helen Nicolay's "Personal Traits of Abraham Lincoln"; "A Memoir of George Haven Putnam"; "Memories of James McNeil Whistler," by Thomas R. Way; "The Man Who Bucked Up," by Arthur Howard—how a debt-engulfed spendthrift made himself a newspaper power and Mayor of Salem in eighteen months; "In the Courts of Memory," by Mme. L. de Hegermann-Lindencrone—reminiscences of the Court of Napoleon III.; "George Frederic Watts," a three-volume illustrated work, by Mrs. Mary S. Tytler Watts; "George Bernard Shaw; His Life and Works," an authorized biography, by Archibald Henderson; "The Letters of George Meredith," edited by his son; "J. M. Synge; a Critical Study," by P. P. Howe; "Reminiscences of a Diplomatist's Wife," by Mrs. Hugh Fraser, a continuation of "A Diplomatist's Wife in Many Lands"; "The Life of John Ruskin," by Edward Tyas Cook; "The Life of Tolstoi," by Nathan Haskell Dole, translator of Tolstoi's works; "The Life of John Henry, Cardinal Newman," by Wilfrid P. Ward; "Autobiographic Memoirs," by Frederic Harrison; and "Browning and His Century," by Helen A. Clarke.

HISTORY.

Professor Edward Channing's third volume of his "History of the United States," bringing the work down to 1789, may be given first place among the historical publications of the year. Also of importance were the third volume of W. R. Livermore's "Story of the Civil War," the eighth of J. B. McMaster's "History of the People of the United States, from the Revolution to the Civil War"; and E. W. Morris' "Causes and Effects in American History." Among the works dealing with some specific section and period were William S. McClellan's "Smuggling in the American Colonies," and "The Contest for California in 1861," by Elijah R. Kennedy. Other volumes of United States history in more popular style were "Romantic Days in the Early Republic," by Caroline Crawford; "The Hoosac Valley," by Grace G. Niles; "The Story of the Bronx," by Stephen Jenkins.

Chief among the books on European history were "Garibaldi and the Making of Italy," by George M. Trevelyan; "The Franco-Prussian War and its Hidden Causes," by Emile Ollivier; and "The Day of the Saxon,"—a prophecy—practically a call to arms, by Homer Lea.

Interesting histories concerned with other parts of the world include W. M. Shuster's "The Strangling of Persia," the story of the diplomacy and intrigue that denationalized 12,000,000 Mohammedans; "The Secret of the Pacific," by C. R. Enock, a discussion of the origin of early civilization of America, the Toltecs, Aztecs, Mayas, Incas, and possibilities of Asiatic influence; "In Northern Mists," a history of polar travel, from early times to 1500, by Fridtjof Nansen; "A History of the Modern World," in two volumes, by Oscar Browning; "Famous Sea Fights, from Salamis to Tsushima," by J. R. Hale; and Judge J. H. Blount's "The American Occupation of the Philippines."

TRAVEL AND DESCRIPTION.

Apparently we need not fear that the travelers will reach the point where no new worlds are left to conquer. However well known a land may be, each new writer sees it from a different viewpoint—even such familiar ground as the United States becomes a new place when we see it in Arnold Bennett's company. His volume, "Your United States," though a late fall publication, may be considered one of the most popular works of the past year, and it is not surprising. If the writer be kindly and discriminating, yet humorous withal, we will read about ourselves as long as he will write on that fascinating subject. Other volumes of travel and description here at home were F. Hopkinson

Smith's charmingly illustrated "Charcoals of New and Old New York"; Winthrop Packard's "Literary Pilgrimages of a Naturalist"; John Matthews' "The Log of the 'Easy Way'" —the story of a honeymoon trip on the Mississippi; "The Yosemite," by John Muir; "Social Life in Old New Orleans," by Eliza Ripley; "Boston, New and Old," by T. R. Sullivan; "The Columbia River," by W. D. Lyman; and "The Indians of the Terraced Houses," by Charles F. Saunders.

More remote parts of our continent were reviewed in Hulbert Footner's "New Rivers of the North"; Ernest Thompson Seton's "The Arctic Prairies," the record of a 2000-mile canoe journey; and "The American Mediterranean," by S. A. Bonsal.

Especially interesting were the books dealing with South America—Caspar Whitney's "The Flowing Road"; Algot Lange's "In the Amazon Jungle"; "Through South America," by H. W. Van Dyke; "Chile," by Nevin O. Winter; "Uruguay," by W. H. Koebel; "The Argentine in the Twentieth Century," by A. B. Martinez and Maurice Lewandowski; and, most important of all, "South America," by James Bryce.

Europe, as usual, was the favorite ground for travelers off on a holiday, and, of course, it is the personality of the traveler, as much as the personality of the land, that gives each book its appeal. For instance, Edith Wharton's "In Chateau Land," of 1912, is quite a different story from what we shall soon receive from Richard Le Gallienne, at present on a walking tour through the same country. "Miss John Bull," by Yoshio Markino, gave a picture of the Englishwoman as the Japanese artist sees her. In "The Flower of Gloster," Ernest Temple Thurston chronicled a dreamy barge tour through English inland waterways. Octave Uzanne described "The Modern Parisienne" in chatty sketches; H. C. Shelley wrote of "Old Paris" and its associations. "Spain Revisited: a Summer Holiday in Galicia," by Catharine Hartley, describing a little-known province; "The Fortunate Isles," by Mary Stuart Boyd, an account of life and travel in the Balearic Islands; "An Artist in Corfu," by Sophie Atkinson; "Andorra, the Hidden Republic," sketches of the oldest, poorest and smallest republic in the world, by L. G. Leary; and "The Germans," by I. A. R. Wylie, a casual observer, are all interesting reading for travelers or stay-at-homes.

The happy places far from civilization were written of in "Trekking the Great Thirst," travel and sport in the Kalahari Desert in Bechuanaland, by Arnold W. Hodson; "Through the Heart of Africa," by F. H. Melland and E. Cholmeley; "The Great Plateau of Northern Rhodesia," by C. Gouldsbury and Hubert Sheane; "The Land of Footprints," travel in Equatorial Africa, by Stewart Edward White; "In Forbidden China," by Vicomte d'Ollone; and "Karakoram and Western Himalaya," an unusually beautifully illustrated account of the expedition by the Duke of the Abruzzi.

Of particular appeal were the books dealing with present social or political conditions; for instance, Maurice Baring's "The Russian People"; E. A. Ross' "The Changing Chinese"—a really remarkable work, widely read; "Across China on Foot," by E. J. Dingle; "The New China," by Henri Borel; "The Chinese Revolution," by A. Judson Brown; "Where Half the World is Waking Up," by C. H. Roe (all these, of course, especially interesting in the year of the revolution); "On Horseback Through Nigeria," in which J. D. Falconer emphasizes the benefits of British occupancy; "Life in the Moslem East," by Pierre Ponnafidine, Russian consul at Constantinople; and "Pygmies and Papuans," by A. F. R. Wollaston, the account of a scientific expedition of 1911 to the unknown Snow Mountains of Dutch New Guinea.

The story of the greatest tragedy of many years was told in "The Loss of the S. S. 'Titanic,'" by Lawrence Beesley, a survivor.

POLITICS AND SOCIOLOGY.

Here, undoubtedly, we feel the pulse of the day. Next to fiction and religion—always the leaders—came sociology in the tables of book production. In 1912, the books in this class again reached a record number, scarce fifty behind religion. Only a few of the most important can be noted here: E. A. Ross' "Changing America"; Walter E. Weyl's "The New Democracy"; "Old Age Dependency in the United States," by L. W. Squier; "The Man Farthest Down," by Booker T. Washington; "Armaments and Arbitration," by Rear-Admiral A. T. Mahan; "The New Competition," by A. J. Eddy; "Concentration and Control," by C. R. Van Hise; "Majority Rule and the Judiciary," by W. L. Ransom; "The Supreme Court and the Constitution," by C.

A. Beard; "Our Judicial Oligarchy," by G. E. Roe; "Woman and Social Progress," by S. and N. Nearing; "Making a Business Woman," by Anne Shannon Monroe; Donald Lowrie's "My Life in Prison"; "The Republican Tradition in Europe," by H. A. L. Fisher; "Wisconsin an Experiment in Democracy," by F. C. Howe; and several timely volumes on commission government: "Commission Government in American Cities," by E. S. Bradford; and "City Government by Commission," edited by Clinton Rogers Woodruff. "The Great State; Essays in Construction," by H. G. Wells and others; and "Applied Socialism," by John Spargo, were added to the literature of socialism.

Other volumes that cannot be passed over are "Old Age Dependency in the United States," a complete survey of the pension movement, by L. W. Squier; "Waterways versus Railroads," by G. H. Moulton; "The Spirit of Social Work; Nine Addresses," by A. T. Devine; "Modern Philanthropy," by William H. Allen; "The Women of Tomorrow," by William Hard; and "The Woman Movement," by Ellen Key.

SCIENCE.

"The Sun," by C. G. Abbot; "Surgery and Society," by Dr. G. W. Saleeby; "Some Chemical Problems of To-Day," by Robert K. Duncan, showing the new alliance between chemistry and manufacturing; and "The Mechanistic Conception of Life," an attempt, by Jacques Loeb, to analyze life from a purely physico-chemical viewpoint, were among the most important of the year's contributions to science.

The prominent place taken by the comparatively new science of Eugenics is shown, as has been already noted by the long list of books on the subject, to mention a few: "Heredity and Eugenics," by W. E. Castle and others; "The Task of Social Hygiene," by H. Havelock Ellis; "Heredity in Relation to Eugenics," by Charles B. Davenport; and "Heredity in Relation to Evolution and Animal Breeding," by W. E. Castle.

MISCELLANEOUS.

An unusual number of practical and valuable books on building and housefurnishing were issued during the year, among them: "Successful Houses and How to Build Them," by Charles E. White, Jr.; "The Colonial Homes of Philadelphia and its Neighborhood," by H. D. Eberlein and H. M. Lippincott; "The Half-Timber House," by Allen W. Jackson, fully illustrated; "The Essentials of a Country House," by R. A. Briggs; "Furnishing the Home in Good Taste," by Lucy A. Throop; and "Colonial Furniture in America," a much-enlarged new edition of L. V. Lockwood's standard work.

Painting and other arts were the subject of many interesting works, notably August Rodin's "Art," Fenollosa's "Epochs of Chinese and Japanese Art," both very fully illustrated; "A Glimpse at Japanese Landscape Art," by Mrs. Dora Amsden and J. Stewart Happer; "American Graphic Art," a history, by F. Weitenkampf; "Frank Brangwyn and His Work," by Walter Shaw-Sparrow; "A Treatise on Ceramic Industries," the revision of a standard work by E. Bourry; and "Tapestries, Their Origin, History and Renaissance," by George L. Hunter.

Two collections of poetry attracted attention: "The Home Book of Verse," compiled by Burton Stevenson; and "The Lyric Year," a compilation of 100 poems by 100 American authors, submitted in a prize competition. "Irish Poems," by A. J. A. Stringer; "Hard Labor, and Other Poems," by John Carter; "The Singing Man," by Josephine Preston Peabody; and "The Ballads of the White Horse," by G. K. Chesterton, are but a few of the many good volumes from the poets.

Dramas in book form rose in popularity—a tendency noted during the last few years. Strindberg's plays, Hauptmann's dramas, Arnold Bennett's "Milestones" and "The Honey-moon," Loti's "The Daughter of Heaven," Lady Gregory's "Irish Folk History Plays," Kennedy's "The Terrible Meek," Galsworthy's "The Pigeon" were a few of these. An interesting study of the history and tendencies of our drama was given in "The American Dramatist," by Montrose J. Moses.

Among the books of first importance not included under any of the above subjects were: "A New Conscience and an Ancient Evil," plain facts about the white-slave traffic, by Jane Addams; "The Truth of Religion," by Rudolf C. Eucken; "The Modern Gasoline Automobile," by Victor W. Page; "The Curtiss Aviation Book"; "The Montessori Method," which attracted much attention; "Railroad Finance," by F. A. Cleveland and F. W. Powell; and "Scientific Mental Healing," by H. Addington Bruce.

BOOK PRODUCTION, 1912.

AMERICAN.

THE number of books recorded in the weekly and monthly lists of the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY during 1912 was 10,903, 220 less than in 1911, when 11,123 titles were recorded. Of the number, 10,135 were new books, and 768 new editions; 7975 were by American authors, 504 were copyright books by English authors, and 2424 importations. The slight falling off from 1911 can be located under the general literature division, ten other divisions showing gains, some quite noticeable. Interest in sociology and economics is still on the ascendancy, 867 titles having been listed in 1912, as against 653 in 1911. History jumps from 442 to 524, law from 682 to 862, domestic economy from 95 to 110, and agriculture from 240 to 305. Biography declines from 695 to 581.

Of the books listed, 4649 were received for record and annotation in the office of the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY. The remaining titles include author's books not sent for record, certain government publications, titles reported by publishers, law and medical books and other books in special departments, and miscellaneous works of minor importance. With 1913, we propose to differentiate pamphlets in our statistics from bound volumes.

INTERNATIONAL BOOK AND PERIODICAL PRODUCTION

INTERNATIONAL STATISTICS OF BOOK AND PERIODICAL PRODUCTION.

CONDENSED IN LARGE PART FROM DATA COMPILED BY "LE DROIT D'AUTEUR."

Le Droit d'Auteur, the monthly organ, published at Berne, Switzerland, by the "International Bureau for the [Copyright] Protection of Literary and Artistic Works," has for two years past endeavored to compile a trustworthy summary of international statistics of book and periodical production. Such a compilation still faces an utter lack of uniformity in the countries represented in scope, accuracy of tabulation and classification of the statistics in question. The Droit d'Auteur takes, however, a hopeful view of the situation, and believes that more and more civilized countries are sinking their "fantastic oppositions" to proposed bases for securing uniform statistics of literary productions.

It points out, however, that defective methods in many countries and the general lack of uniformity in classification make, as yet, impossible anything like an international comparison of publishing activity. Progress toward uniformity in method is slow, for it is difficult to emancipate one's self from old habits and to abandon traditional processes. Nevertheless, points out Le Droit d'Auteur, steps have been taken toward the general solution of the problem. A uniform method and system of classification (based on the international Dewey Decimal Classification, already in general library use) was suggested by the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY in 1910, recommended by the International Congress of Bibliographers, and has been already adopted, according to Le Droit d'Auteur, by Belgium and Great Britain, as well as the United States.

Statistics for Great Britain are given for 1912. For all other countries the latest available statistics are quoted, generally 1911.

GREAT BRITAIN.

BOOK PRODUCTION.

THE number of books recorded as having been published during 1912 is 12,067, a large increase over the total for any previous year in the history of British publishing. An article in the Publishers' Circular states that the number recorded in 1911 was 10,914, so that the current yearly increase is 1153. The rate of production during the year has been fairly steady, without so much variation from month to month, as in 1911. The months of September, October and November still hold pride of place as the most prolific, and October has established a new record by rising to the total of 1740—which means that, on an average, during that month, 64 books were published every weekday.

The following are the totals for the last eleven years and last year:

| Year. | New books. | New editions. | Total. |
|-------|------------|---------------|--------|
| 1901 | 4,955 | 1,089 | 6,044 |
| 1902 | 5,839 | 1,542 | 7,381 |
| 1903 | 6,699 | 1,682 | 8,381 |
| 1904 | 6,456 | 1,878 | 8,334 |
| 1905 | 6,817 | 1,435 | 8,252 |
| 1906 | 6,985 | 1,618 | 8,603 |

| | | | |
|------|-------|-------|--------|
| 1907 | 7,701 | 2,213 | 9,914 |
| 1908 | 7,512 | 2,309 | 9,821 |
| 1909 | 8,446 | 2,279 | 10,725 |
| 1910 | 8,468 | 2,336 | 10,804 |
| 1911 | 8,530 | 2,384 | 10,914 |
| 1912 | 9,197 | 2,870 | 12,067 |

This is the second year that the statistical table has been constructed on the lines of the classification scheme adopted by the International Congress of Bibliographers at Brussels in 1910, so that a comparison of each class of literature is possible. The increased publishing activity of 1912 has been distributed over nearly all classes of literature. The largest increases have occurred in the following classes: Philosophy, education, science, technology, medicine, domestic arts, literature, fiction, juvenile literature and biography—particularly science, literature, fiction and juvenile literature. In the detailed table given, "Education" includes only books about educational theory and practice, and not textbooks on special subjects, which are classed elsewhere; and also that under "Music," only works about music are recorded.

Large though the total for the year is, it would be possible to swell it to a much greater figure by the inclusion of numerous leaflets (government and other), ephemeral pamphlets, the publications of borough councils and other local government bodies, and musical texts. The latter alone, if fully recorded, would require an annual volume rivaling The English Catalogue in size. The total would be greatly increased by the inclusion of all these items, but the figures would not represent so accurately the book publishing activity of the United Kingdom.

In the accompanying table, each book is counted as one, whether it is in one or more volumes. Serials that appear later as a collected volume are counted as an ordinary book on the appearance of that volume; so that, for example, the series of "Statutory Rules and Orders," issued by the government, and amounting to several hundred in the year, are merely counted as one item on the appearance of the annual collected volume. The same rule applies to volumes of magazines, etc.

GERMANY.

BOOK PRODUCTION.

The German production of books in 1911, despite the temporary setback in book trade activity, which was reflecting the general financial condition of the country, seems to have been dominated by great optimism, the increase for that year having been the greatest in ten years. As usual, books in German, published in Austria and Switzerland, are included in this count. The following table classifies the output:

| | 1910 | 1911 |
|--|--------|--------|
| General Bibliography. Books on Library Methods. Encyclopedias. Collective Works. Selections. Writings of Learned Societies. University Questions.... | 455 | 469 |

| Directories. Almanac..... | 639 | 640 |
| Sundries..... | 681 | 618 |
| Total..... | 31,281 | 32,998 |

Three-fourths of the increase is divided between the classes: fiction (+486), education (+400), and philology (+353). The considerable increase of literary works compensates the decrease in 1910. The fluctuations occurring in the other classes are of little importance.

AN ANALYSIS OF THE LEIPZIG BOOK FAIRS.

Two important bibliographical works have been recently published. The first, by M. R. Jentz, bears the title, "Der deutsch-lateinische Büchermarkt nach den Leipziger Ostermess Katalogen von 1740, 1770 und 1800 nach seine gliederung und Handlung." The author has undertaken to examine thoroughly the books offered for sale at the famous Easter fairs of Leipzig for three typical years, at intervening periods of thirty years. In 1740, the new books listed in the Leipzig catalogue numbered but 755, among them 57 translations (10.5 per cent): 32 from the French, 15 from the English, and 5 from the Latin. In 1770, the number had already increased to 1144 books (increase, 51.5 per cent.), 144 of which were translations: 64 from the French, 40 from the English, 12 from the Latin, 10 from the Italian, etc. In 1800, 2569 books were listed, 232 of which were translations: 102 from the French, 79 from the English, 13 from the Dutch, etc. The Latin language, which in 1740 was still predominant in the branches of philology, philosophy, law and natural sciences, had given way to the various national languages.

GERMAN BOOK PRODUCTION BY STATES.

The second study, by M. J. Goldfriedrich, was published a few months ago by the German Börsenverein under the title, "Statistische Uebersicht der im Gebiete des deutsche Buchhandels erschienenen Bücher und Zeitschriften des Jahres 1908." A typical year was chosen for detailed analysis, the figures being secured as data for the German book trade to defend itself against the institution of a forced depository, which the government was planning to reintroduce in Saxony.

The entire literary production of the country is divided in two principal parts—books and periodicals—and subdivided into thirteen groups by States (Prussia, Saxony, Bavaria, Württemberg, the other States of the Empire; Austria-Hungary, Switzerland, the other countries) and by cities (Berlin, Leipzig, Munich, Stuttgart and Vienna). A distinction is made in regard to whether or no the publications are accompanied by supplements, and as to whether the pages and the price are indicated. The number of German works published in Austria-Hungary is given as 2867; in Switzerland, 875; and in foreign countries, 187; for then there remains for the production in the German Empire during 1908 only the number of 24,474.

STATISTICS OF PERIODICALS.

The number of periodicals published in Germany in 1908 and recorded in the Annual of the Presse Periodique de Sterling, was 5747. Mr. Goldfriedrich found the number to be 6320 (of which Berlin published 1382; Leipzig, 599; Munich, 224; Stuttgart, 184; Vienna, 629).

SOME GERMAN BOOK COSTS.

One point of interest in the Goldfriedrich analysis was the estimates of book and periodical cost. If, for example, some one library had to buy one copy of each of those 28,403 books and 6320 periodicals, it would have had to pay 99,026 marks (about $20,000) for the former and 46,806 marks (about $9500) for the latter. These figures, of course, represent the retail prices.

The average retail cost of a German book is figured as 3.68 marks (about 70 cents), and of a periodical, 7.55 marks (about $1.50). The latter is probably slightly higher than a similar American average, the former certainly lower.

BIBLIOGRAPHY OF DISSERTATIONS.

The current bibliography of dissertations and academic writing appears in the monthly Bibliographischer Monatsbericht, published by the firm of Gustave Fock, at Leipzig. A considerable diminution in this output appeared in 1911, apparently without any special reason. The figures for successive years show considerable fluctuation:

| ACADEMIC YEAR. | TITLES. |
|----------------|---------|
| 1907-08 | 5097 |

TRANSLATIONS OF GERMAN WORKS.

Translations of German works, either protected or uncopyrighted, have been, as usual, reported bibliographically in the Börsenblatt for the Slavic languages (Hungarian, Rumanian, and other languages of Oriental Europe). The total for 1911 was 576, the highest in six years, as shown from the following table:

| YEAR. | |
|------------|-----|
| 1902 | 329 |
| 1903 | 319 |
| 1904 | 400 |
| 1905 | 333 |
| 1906 | 358 |
| 1907 | 425 |
| 1908 | 410 |
| 1909 | 477 |
| 1910 | 565 |
| 1911 | 576 |

The bibliography of German works translated into English, Danish, Spanish, French, Italian, Dutch, Norwegian and Swedish, in 1912, has again been taken up by Mr. Mühlbrecht, Jr. The figures are: 1906, 451; 1907, 488; 1908, 566; 1909, 439; 1910, 357.

GERMAN BOOKS IN THE UNITED STATES.

The number of registrations of German works, in 1911, for which copyright was solicited in the United States, under the American law of March 4, 1909, again showed a decrease, if we may believe the records of the official agency at New York (German book, Art and Music Agency). They amounted, in 1911, to but 3607 (1908, 3467; 1909, 3921; 1910, 3839). They were divided into: books, 623 (1910, 630); periodicals, 182 (195); dramatic works, 68 (67); pictures, drawings, sketches, 48 (121); map, 1 (52); musical works, 2680 (2760).

These figures were in part too small, for 503 books were registered, between April 1 and December 31, 1911, by the American Institute at Berlin, which practically performs this service.

Neither the propaganda made by the agency at New York, the facilities offered by the one at Berlin, or the urging made to German publishers to profit by the new American copyright legislation, have overcome the aversion of the German book trade to the formalities imposed upon foreign authors by the United States. Out of 33,000 works appearing in 1911, only 1211 were entered for copyright in the United States.

GERMAN BOOK TRADE STATISTICS.

The official directory of the German book trade (Offizielles Adressbuch des deutschen Buchhandels), the indispensable annual published by the Börsenverein, gives, in its last edition (1913, seventy-fifth year) a statistical table of firms engaged in the book, music and fine arts trade:

| | 1911 | 1912 |
|--------------------------|--------|--------|
| Germany..... | 9,634 | 9,525 |
| Austria-Hungary..... | 1,093 | 1,100 |
| Switzerland..... | 350 | 355 |
| Countries of Europe..... | 1,102 | 1,120 |
| America..... | 225 | 226 |
| Africa..... | 30 | 30 |
| Asia..... | 41 | 45 |
| Australia..... | 11 | 11 |
| Total..... | 12,486 | 12,412 |

The apparent decrease in the number of houses in Germany is due, as far as 1912 is concerned, to the exclusion of firms which make dealing in books only a part of their business. The 12,412 firms listed have their businesses in 2451 localities (in 1912, 2455; 1875, 1689). Of these, 330 (1912, 322) are situated within the German Empire: 84 (84); 242 (240) in Switzerland. There are 3249 firms exclusively occupied with publishing (1909, 3245; 1910, 3293; 1911, 3279; 1912, 3265).

On March 31, 1912, the German Börsenverein had 3543 members, 84 more than on March 31, 1911.

The German book trade exported, in 1910, a total of 51,017,000 marks' worth of books:

|-------------------------|------------------|
| To Austria-Hungary..... | 20,849,000 marks |
| " Switzerland..... | 6,841,000 " |
| " Russia..... | 4,827,000 " |
| " United States..... | 3,373,000 " |
| " France..... | 2,544,000 " |
| " Great Britain..... | 1,516,000 " |
| " Italy..... | 992,000 " |
| " Japan..... | 818,000 " |

Other large exportations go to Sweden, Argentine, Brazil and Chili.

ARGENTINE REPUBLIC.

STATISTICS OF PERIODICALS.

The commercial division of the Argentine Department of Agriculture finished in June, 1911, a census of the periodical press of the country. The number of organs recorded was 795 (in 1895, 345), among which, 334 (in 1904, 63) are published in the federal capital, 260 in the province of Buenos Aires, and the rest in the other departments. Ten of these organs have been in existence for more than forty years, 21 for more than thirty, and 61 for more than twenty. The great majority, that is, 724 journals, are published in Spanish, 16 are in Italian, 9 English, 6 German, 5 French, 4 Arabic, 2 Danish, 2 Slavic; 6 are published in both Spanish and Italian, 5 in Spanish and French, 4 in French and Italian, 2 in French and English, etc. These facts attest the cosmopolitanism of the population.

The last census of the Argentine press was taken in 1900, and included 739 journals. The growth since then has thus been continuous, but is now rather slackening.

AUSTRIA-HUNGARY.

STATISTICS OF PERIODICALS.

The number of periodicals in German, published in Austria-Hungary in 1908, was 918, of which 629 were in Vienna alone. Perle's Adressbuch, in its 46th edition, for 1911, which contains only periodicals of a certain importance, gives the periodical press of the entire monarchy at 2369, 11 more than in 1910.

BOOKTRADE STATISTICS.

We find in the same annual information as to the number of Austro-Hungarian publishing houses and allied industries:

| | 1910 | 1911 |
|----------------------------|-------|-------|
| Booksellers..... | 2,643 | 2,709 |
| Publishing houses..... | 700 | 720 |
| Dealers in music..... | 1,051 | 1,099 |
| Circulating libraries..... | 354 | 347 |

The booktrade had some representation in 839 towns in Austria-Hungary in 1911, as against 813 in 1910.

BOOK PRODUCTION.

Exact statistics of the book production of Austria-Hungary are lacking. Books in German (given in connection with German statistics) numbered 2867 in 1908.

Hungarian production is estimated by the author of an article on the "Hungarian Book Trade" (Börsenblatt, August 22, 1912) at about 3000 volumes a year, which is considerable, given the limited radius of the Hungarian idiom. Outside of official publications, it is the category of judicial and political works that contains the greatest number of works. Children's books and illustrated works are also very numerous; academic books are legion. In medicine and the natural sciences, there are relatively few publications; in architecture and engineering, books are even rarer. In philosophy and theology, are only manuals. Belles-lettres occupy a large place in the output.

BELGIUM.

BOOK PRODUCTION.

The Institut International de bibliographie, at Brussels, furnishes the following statistics of Belgian book production for 1910 and 1911:

| | 1910 | 1911 |

CANADA.

BOOK PRODUCTION.

The only exact statistics on publishing output available are those of copyright registrations with the Canadian Minister of Agriculture. From April 1, 1909, to March 31, 1910, these numbered 1535.

The Canadian Courier, which makes a specialty of recording the publication of Canadian books each fall, shows that 94 books have been issued during the year, of which 15 consist of poetry, 31 of fiction, and 48 of general literature. The difficulty of deciding just what is or is not a Canadian book makes this figure somewhat misleading. If we include merely books that have been printed in Canada the number is very much smaller.

COLOMBIA.

STATISTICS OF PERIODICALS.

In 1911, Colombia had 470 periodicals; about a fifth, perhaps 88, appearing in the department of Cundinamarca, where the capital, Bogotá, is situated.

DENMARK.

BOOK PRODUCTION.

The following statistics of book production are made by the Royal Danish Library, and are based on the legal registry; these figures are for the periods between April 1 and March 31:

| | 1909-10 | 1910-11 | 1911-12 |
|---|---------|---------|---------|

| Totals..... | 3,358 | 3,305 | 3,633 |

INTERNATIONAL BOOK AND PERIODICAL PRODUCTION

The growth over the preceding year is 328 works; two-thirds of this last total is represented by the additions to the two categories of belles-lettres (+161) and of fine arts (+79). Medicine and the natural sciences are on the decrease.

In the total of 3633 publications, is comprised 1188 brochures (Smaaskrifter) and 403 translations. The greatest number of brochures, say, 363, is in this category. History and domestic geography, which includes the classification so difficult to define of Danemarks indre Forhold (447 publications, of which 204 are brochures); then follow theology, with 155 brochures, the natural sciences (144) and belles-lettres (102).

Of the translations, 46 belong in the classification of theology, 17 in that of pedagogy, 12 in philosophy, 11 in history and foreign geography, etc.; but the largest number of translations, as is natural, is to be found in the class of belles-lettres, where the publications are divided by languages. With 561 Danish publications (1909, 487; 1910, 503) and 37 Icelandic (1909, 17; 1910, 7), there are 300 translations (1909, 153; 1910, 227), a great increase. These translations rank by language:

SPAIN.

BOOK PRODUCTION.

For 1911, for the first time, the Bibliografía Española enables us to give a complete table of the Spanish book output, upon which have been available heretofore only incomplete data. The total for 1911 was 2878 books, divided into four large classes: general works, philosophy and religion, 333; social science, 1006; literature, 1112; and history and geography, 425.

It is impossible to analyze these totals in detail, but one comparison is significant of modern Spain—that after novels, the highest total, comes immediately works in applied science.

STATISTICS OF PERIODICALS.

An equal good fortune befalls us in the statistics of the Spanish periodical press, concerning which we have been deprived of information since 1900 (1347 periodicals). The Revista Minera, Metalúrgica y de Ingeniería (for December 24, 1911) publishes figures on this subject gathered by the Minister of the Government, giving for 1911 a total of 1838 periodicals, divided as follows:

|---|-----|
| Newspapers and political reviews..... | 749 |
| Organs of societies and scientific associations.. | 55 |

FRANCE.

BOOK PRODUCTION.

Statistics of French book production are made up from the figures of the Bibliographie de la France:

| Year | Books and pamphlets | Music | Engraving, etc. |
|-----------|---------------------|-------|-----------------|
| 1908..... | 12,199 | 6,719 | 843 |
| 1903..... | 12,264 | 6,824 | 950 |
| 1904..... | 12,139 | 6,429 | 927 |
| 1905..... | 12,416 | 6,197 | 728 |
| 1906..... | 10,898 | 5,926 | 1,054 |
| 1907..... | 10,785 | 7,648 | 832 |
| 1908..... | 11,073 | 7,531 | 468 |
| 1909..... | 13,185 | 7,035 | 589 |
| 1910..... | 12,615 | 5,767 | 534 |
| 1911..... | 11,652 | 4,848 | 504 |

The decrease noted for the year 1910 extends, this time, through all three divisions (-963, -919, -30). The musical output seems not to have been so low for ten years, which hardly corresponds to actual trade conditions.

In discussing French book output by classes, it should be noted that for the year 1910 a radical change in the classification used took place. It comprised 7 main divisions and 66 subdivisions. This classification was revised again for the systematic tables of 1911, and extended to 9 main divisions. For purposes of comparison, the following analysis of the 1911 output is made according to the older classification:

RECORD OF FRENCH BOOK PRODUCTION.

| | 1910 | 1911 |
|-----------------------------------|--------|--------|
| Philosophy..... | 159 | 168 |
| Religion and theology..... | 855 | 888 |

| Fiction..... | 1,152 | 1,107 |
| History and geography..... | 2,112 | 1,817 |
| Totals..... | 11,266 | 10,396 |

Some items in individual subjects may be of interest: "Aviation" had but 55 books in 1911, as against 67 in 1910; books on administration decrease from 133 to 126; colonization, from 130 to 88. Books on the organization of labor have increased from 51 to 68. There is no record of juvenile book production.

INDIA.

STATISTICS OF PERIODICALS.

During 1905-06, the latest year for which statistics are available, there were published in India 747 newspapers (73 more than in 1904) and 793 other periodicals (283 more than in 1904).

ITALY.

BOOK PRODUCTION.

For a number of years, 1906-10, the Italian book production remained stationary; indeed, slightly decreased. Then, suddenly, without any plausible reason, the production in 1911 increased 4141 titles:

| YEAR. | TOTAL. | REPRINTS. |
|-------|--------|-----------|
| 1906 | 6,822 | 446 |
| 1907 | 7,040 | 416 |
| 1908 | 6,918 | 416 |
| 1909 | 6,833 | 536 |
| 1910 | 6,788 | 562 |
| 1911 | 10,929 | 614 |

To these totals must be added 59 academical writings and 779 musical works. The heavy increase noted is divided between all branches, as is shown by the following classified analysis:

| | 1910 | 1911 |
|--|-------|--------|
| Bibliography, Encyclopedia.... | 66 | 110 |
| Philosophy..... | 182 | 266 |
| Religion..... | 295 | 371 |
| Education..... | 357 | 538 |
| Textbooks..... | 601 | 863 |
| History..... | 599 | 938 |
| Biography..... | 242 | 354 |
| Geography..... | 86 | 194 |
| Philology..... | 344 | 723 |
| Poetry..... | 273 | 302 |
| Fiction..... | 414 | 415 |
| Dramas, theatre..... | 256 | 275 |
| Sundries..... | 171 | 156 |
| Law, jurisprudence..... | 349 | 622 |
| Social sciences..... | 730 | 1,111 |
| Physical sciences..... | 139 | 589 |
| Medicine, pharmacy..... | 503 | 1,082 |
| Technology..... | 253 | 411 |
| Military and naval sciences..... | 116 | 206 |
| Fine arts..... | 169 | 347 |
| Agriculture, industrial and commercial arts..... | 643 | 1,056 |
| Total..... | 6,788 | 10,929 |

The increase is particularly noticeable in the classes: medicine (+579), science (+381 and 450), agriculture, industrial and commercial arts (+413), philology (+379), and history (+339).

Of 11,317 publications, 10,835 appeared in Italian, 241 in French, 153 in Latin, 34 in English, 27 in German, 16 in Spanish, 10 in Greek and 1 in Portuguese.

The translation from foreign languages into Italian, during 1911, amounted to 461 (in 1909, 433; in 1910, 435); 235 of these were from the French, 97 from the German, 63 (in 1909, 60; in 1910, 65) from the English.

There is apparently more than the usual discrepancy between the trade statistics of publishing activity and the official record of copyright registrations. The latter, as very explicitly published in the Bolletino della proprietà intellettuale, gave the total registrations for 1911 at only 2121.

JAPAN.

BOOK PRODUCTION.

The Imperial Ministry of the Interior of Japan furnishes statistics of the Japanese book production and of the sales of printed matter there for the years 1910 and 1911:

| Years | Works Total Number | Reprints | Translations | Newspapers Total Numbers | Other Periodicals |
|-------|--------------------|----------|--------------|--------------------------|-------------------|
| 1902 | 23,357 | 407 | 8 | 1,389 | 586 |
| 1903 | 24,755 | 459 | 17 | 1,580 | 721 |
| 1904 | 30,736 | 1,008 | 28 | 1,585 | 777 |
| 1905 | 30,046 | 1,184 | 17 | 1,749 | 859 |
| 1906 | 28,861 | 542 | 65 | 1,952 | 979 |
| 1907 | 29,471 | 366 | 49 | 2,251 | 1,099 |
| 1908 | 29,029 | 507 | 43 | 2,481 | 1,227 |
| 1909 | 34,730 | 607 | 57 | 2,727 | 1,368 |
| 1910 | 41,620 | | 52 | 1,793 | 621 |
| 1911 | 43,244 | | 91 | 2,077 | 571 |

The former maximum of the year 1905 has been passed by a great deal in both 1910 and 1911, the latter year showing a production amounting to nearly double that of 1912. Translations have increased tenfold since that time, although even now they are few, and are mainly religious books, literature, fiction and sport.

Classified in 33 categories (new classification of 1909), the Japanese book production is as follows for the last three years:

| | 1909 | 1910 | 1911 |
|--|-------|-------|-------|
| Politics..... | 3,490 | 8,391 | 8,524 |
| Law and jurisprudence..... | 1,191 | 1,182 | 1,277 |
| Political and social economy..... | 220 | 255 | 267 |

The number of copyright registrations under the old law of March 3, 1899, was 205 in 1910; for 1911, 214. Registrations are made, however, only of transfers of copyright.

IMPORTATION AND EXPORTATION.

The figures of book export and import given below are taken from the report of the Minister of Finance, and are for the years 1908-1911 (expressed in yen). The statistics distinguish between foreign and Japanese productions. We can neglect, where the import is concerned, the small figure of Japanese production, and with relation to the export, the figures relating to foreign production:

| Exportation..... | 647,776 | 664,019 | 618,851 | 495,443 |

The most important importing countries are the United States, Germany, and England, in this order.

NORWAY.

BOOK PRODUCTION.

The Auskatalog over Norsk Literatur, edited by the Association of Norwegian Librarians, reports only books made known to the bureau of the association of book publishers. Statistics made therefrom are necessarily, therefore, incomplete. More comprehensive is the Norsk Bokfortegnelse, the catalogue annually published by the university, and based upon the obligatory depot created by the law of June 20, 1882. We owe to the kindness of Mr. Klaus Hael, at Christiania, the following statistics:

| Musical works..... | 210 | 71 | 198 |
| Printings..... | 27 | 31 | 8 |

The Norwegian book output seems to be at present, as may be seen, practically stationary.

BOOK PRODUCTION.

The publications figuring in the first part of the annual catalogue, which the house of A. W. Sijthoff, at Leyden, publishes under the title of Brinkman's Alfabetische lijst van Boeken, Landkaarten, etc. (now in its sixty-eighth year), form the basis of trade bibliography for the Netherlands:

The Dutch production has been for some years practically stationary. It will be interesting to observe whether this regularity will be affected by the entrance of Holland into the international union.

SWITZERLAND.

BOOK PRODUCTION.

The Swiss national library at Berne has been, since 1848, charged with the compilation of all data relative to Swiss bibliography. It publishes figures of book production, as given below. It must be confessed, however, that these are, from a bibliographical standpoint, practically valueless, since, as we understand it, they include all accessions to the library, regardless of origin. This means that a very large proportion of these figures represents the publications of other countries:

REPORT OF THE REGISTER OF COPYRIGHTS FOR 1911-1912

THE following is a summary of the report of Thorvald Solberg, the Register of Copyrights for the United States for the fiscal year 1911-1912:

RECEIPTS.

The gross receipts during the year were $120,149.51. A balance of $7377.33, representing trust funds and unfinished business, was on hand July 1, 1911, making a total of $127,526.84 to be accounted for. Of this amount, the sum of $3506.38, received by the Copyright Office, was refunded as excess fees or as fees for articles not registrable, leaving a net balance of $124,020.46. The balance carried over to July 1, 1912, was $7335.41 (representing trust funds, $6282.09, and total unfinished business since July 1, 1897—15 years—$1053.32), leaving for fees applied during the fiscal years 1911-1912, $116,685.05.

This is an increase in fees over the previous fiscal year of $6771.10.

EXPENDITURES.

The appropriation made by Congress for salaries in the Copyright Office for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1912, was $95,180. The total expenditure for salaries was $95,058.55, or $21,626.50 less than the net amount of fees earned and paid into the Treasury during the corresponding year. The expenditure for supplies, except furniture, including stationery and other articles, and postage on foreign mail matter, etc., was $1056.81.

more than two and three-quarters million (2,801,691), and the total copyright registrations over one and a half million (1,577,732).

The fees ($1,189,666.70) were larger than the appropriation for salaries ($1,005,134.97) used during the same period by $184,531.73. In addition to this direct profit, a large number of the 2,801,691 books, maps, prints and other articles deposited during the fifteen years were of substantial pecuniary value, and of such a character that their accession to the Library of Congress through the Copyright Office effected a saving to the purchase fund of the Library equal in amount to their cost.

COPYRIGHT ENTRIES, FEES AND DEPOSITS.

The registrations for the fiscal year numbered 120,931. Of these, 108,393 were registrations at $1 each, including a certificate, and 11,189 were registrations of photographs without certificates, at 50 cents each. There were also 1349 registrations of renewals at 50 cents each. The fees for these registrations amounted to a total of $114,662.

The number of registrations in each class from July 1, 1911, to June 30, 1912, as compared with the number of entries made in the previous year, is shown in Table E.

The various articles deposited in compliance with the new copyright law which have been registered, stamped, indexed and catalogued during the fiscal year amounted to 219,521.

The copyright act which went into force on July 1, 1909, provides for the gradual elimination of the accumulated copyright deposits. During the year books desired for the Library, to the number of 8796 volumes, have been transferred to the Library through the Order Division. These volumes were in addition to the "first" copies of copyright books sent as received from day to day, numbering 13,578 for the fiscal year, thus making a total of 22,374 books and pamphlets delivered to the Library from the Copyright Office. In addition to the current copies of maps and musical works sent daily to the music and map divisions of the Library from the Copyright Office (4344 maps and 28,113 musical compositions), 25,782 articles (maps, music and periodicals) were transferred to the Library from the deposits received prior to July 1, 1909.

The act of March 4, 1909 (Sec. 59), provides for the transfer to other governmental libraries in the District of Columbia, "for use therein," of such copyrighted deposits as are not required by the Library of Congress, and during the present fiscal year, 15,755 books were selected by the librarians and thus transferred.

Under the provisions of the same act, authority is granted for the return to the claimant of copyright of such copyright deposits as are not required by the Library. Notice has been printed during the year for all works registered and deposited from 1880-1889, but no requests for return have been received. Twenty-six dramatic or musical compositions have been returned to the copyright claimants, and of the current deposits not needed by the Library of Congress, the following have also been so returned: 16,353 books, 6118 photographs, 13,015 prints, 4555 contributions to periodicals, 3070 periodicals; a total of 43,137 articles.

In response to inquiries during the year from the Card Section, the Order Division and the Reading Room, in regard to 503 books supposed to be copyrighted, but not found in the Library, it was discovered that 79 of these works were already in the Library, 119 of the books had been deposited and were still in the Copyright Office, 39 works were either not published, did not claim copyright, or for other reasons could not be deposited, and in the case of 101 works no answers to our letters of inquiry had been received up to June 30, 1912. Copies were received of 165 works in all, in response to request made by the Copyright Office during the period of twelve months.

COPYRIGHT INDEX AND CATALOGUE, BULLETINS AND CIRCULARS.

The copyright registrations are indexed upon cards. The cards made are first used as copy for the printed catalogue, and after printing are added to the permanent card indexes of the copyright entries. The temporary cards made for the printed indexes, etc., to the catalogue (numbering 78,517 during the fiscal year) are eliminated; the remaining cards (120,237 for the fiscal year) are added to the permanent card indexes, now numbering considerably over two million cards.

The publication of the Catalogue of Copyright Entries has been continued, as required by law. For convenience of search, the volumes are made to cover the works published and deposited during the calendar year, rather than the fiscal year. Five volumes of the Catalogue of Copyright Entries were printed during the calendar year 1911, containing a total of 6842 pages, divided into four parts, each of which is sold separately, at a nominal subscription rate within the maximum price established by law, as follows:

positions and maps (two volumes), $1. Part II.—Periodicals, 50 cents. Part III.—Musical compositions (a very bulky volume), $1. Part IV.—Prints, including chromos and lithographs, photographs and the descriptions of original works of art—paintings, drawings and sculpture—50 cents. The price for the entire catalogue for the year is $3. The subscriptions, by express provisions of the copyright act, are required to be paid to the Superintendent of Documents (Office of the Public Printer, Washington, D. C.), and all subscriptions must be for the complete year for each part desired.

The considerable deposit of foreign books made under the operation of the present copyright law adds a new element of value to the Catalogue of Copyrighted Books. More than ten thousand volumes were deposited of books printed in languages other than English, and nearly 1500 volumes of books printed abroad in the English language.

The new British copyright act, which went into effect on July 1, 1912, was printed as "Bulletin No. 16" of the Copyright Office, entitled "Copyright in England." To the full text of the new law were added the texts of the previous copyright acts not repealed, and the whole was supplied with a complete and carefully made index.

In addition, a small edition was printed and distributed of the presidential proclamation in regard to the provisions of Section 1 (e) of the copyright act, relating to the mechanical reproduction of music in behalf of Cuba, November 27, 1911.

The greater part of the business of the Copyright Office is done by correspondence. The total letters and parcels received during the fiscal year numbered 140,305, while the letters, certificates, parcels, etc., dispatched numbered 154,436. Letters received transmitting remittances numbered 44,285, including money orders to the number of 29,190. During the last fifteen fiscal years the money orders received numbered 376,147.

LEGISLATION.

The new copyright law has now been in force three full years, and certain amendatory legislation has been suggested. Six copyright bills were proposed during the fiscal year in the second session of the Sixty-second Congress. The first was introduced by Hon. Edward W. Townsend, of New Jersey, and proposed to amend Section 25 of the act of March 4, 1909, to limit recovery to $100 in the case of the infringement of a dramatic or dramatico-musical composition by means of moving pictures. The same bill was presented in the Senate on January 8, 1912. After several changes, the bill was passed in the House on June 17, with the following provisions: Motion pictures were included as subject matter of copyright; provision was made for the deposit and registration of motion pictures; and provision was made as to damages in the case of infringement by means of motion pictures. In the final form, the provision for a minimum damage of $50, in the case of infringement of an undramatized or non-dramatic work by means of motion pictures, was stricken out. The bill passed the Senate August 19; on August 24 it was approved and became law. Three other bills were introduced in the House during the discussion of the Townsend bill. Hon. Martin A. Morrison introduced a bill in the House, on March 26, to make the certificate of copyright prima facie evidence of copyright. Subsequently, a substitute bill included certain additional statements in the certificate of copyright, such certificate to be "admitted in any court as prima facie evidence of the facts stated therein." The final amended text was presented April 20, and in the Senate on June 5. The House Committee on Patents reported favorably, with slight amendments, but no further action was taken. Hon. John H. Stephens, of Texas, also introduced a bill to provide for international reciprocity in regard to patents and copyrights. Hon. Mr. Campbell presented "A bill suspending the patent and copyright laws of the United States when a patent or copyright, or any article or product protected by patent or copyright, is owned, used or leased by any trust or monopoly in restraint of trade in violation of the act of February 4, 1887." This is the same bill, with minor changes, which was introduced by Mr. Campbell on April 10, 1911. On May 28, 1912, Mr. Mott presented a bill proposing to include in the list of the classes of articles subject-matter of copyright. "Labels, trade-marks, firm names, and special designs, pictures, prints, wrappers, cartons, containers, and advertisements which are specifically created for individual trades, manufactures or businesses, engraved, printed, colored or produced in any manner whatsoever." The bill also proposes to strike out the misdemeanor clause in Section 28 of the act of March 4, 1909.

INTERNATIONAL COPYRIGHT RELATIONS.

In the Register's report for the year 1910-1911, reference was made to the important fact that the United States had signed, at Buenos Aires, on August 11, 1910, the fourth Pan-American "convention concerning literary and artistic copyright," and that its ratification was approved by the Senate on February 15, 1911. On December 7, 1911, the President reported to Congress as follows:

"The four important conventions signed at the fourth Pan-American conference at Buenos Aires, providing for the regulation of trade-marks, patents and copyrights, and for the arbitration of pecuniary claims, have, with the advice and consent of the Senate, been ratified on the part of the United States, and the ratifications have been deposited with the government of the Argentine Republic, in accordance with the requirements of the conventions. I am not advised that similar action has been taken by any other of the signatory governments."

The President published, on November 27,

1911, a proclamation to the effect that citizens of Cuba are entitled to all the benefits of Section 1 (e) of the act of March 4, 1909, including "copyright controlling the parts of instruments serving to reproduce, mechanically, the musical work" in the case of all musical compositions by Cuban composers published since May 29, 1911, and duly registered for copyright in the United States.

A copyright treaty between the United States and Hungary was signed at Budapest on January 30, 1912. It was submitted to the Senate on March 8, 1912, ratified September 16, and went into effect October 16, 1912.

COPYRIGHT EVENTS AND LEADING AMERICAN CASES IN 1912

The following schedule, continuing the chronological table of cases for previous years in Bowker's "Copyright," and the similar summary for 1911 in the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY and the AMERICAN LIBRARY ANNUAL, gives leading American copyright cases decided or recorded in 1912, together with a list of principal events in legislation and treaty relations. Cases of minor importance, settling no principle, but dealing only with details of procedure or applying settled principles to specific cases, are not covered. The schedule covers the name of the court, the name of the judge presiding or giving the opinion, reference to the law report, if the case is reported, and to the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY report, and also a condensed statement of the points decided, with page reference to the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY report.

THE "BEST SELLERS" OF 1912

THE "BOOKMAN'S" COMMENTS ON ITS ANNUAL SUMMARY OF ITS MONTHLY LISTS OF SIX BEST SELLERS.*

THE closing months of 1911 showed the leading books to be Harold Bell Wright's "The Winning of Barbara Worth," Robert W. Chambers' "The Common Law," Rex Beach's "The Ne'er Do Well," Margaret Deland's "The Iron Woman," and Gene Stratton-Porter's "The Harvester." But the books by Mr. Beach and Mr. Chambers were past the full flood of their popularity, for neither of them endured beyond the coming of the new year. As was the case in 1911, a woman's book had the distinction of being the leader in the list for the first month of 1912. That was Mrs. Deland's "The Iron Woman," which, with 200 points, was threatened only by "The Winning of Barbara Worth" and "The Harvester," which were, respectively, second and third, with 187 points and 171 points. Not one of the books in fourth, fifth and sixth places—Mrs. Barclay's "The Following of the Star," Mr. Harrison's "Queed," and Mr. Farnol's "The Money Moon"—reached 100 points. The loss of "The Iron Woman" in the February lists was not so perceptible as were the gains of "The Winning of Barbara Worth" and "The Harvester." Mr. Wright's book, with 307 points, a gain of 120 points over its total for January, was in first place, and "The Harvester" in second place, with 225 points. "The Iron Woman" was third, with 174 points, and grouped about the hundred-point mark were the same three books that had completed the list in the January number.

The first newcomer to break into the 1912 lists was Mr. Oppenheim's "Peter Ruff and The Double Four," which, in the March issue, temporarily displaced Mr. Farnol's "The Money Moon." "The Winning of Barbara Worth," "The Harvester," and "The Iron Woman" were again first, second and third in the order named, with 229 points, 219 points and 147 points, respectively. Clinging persistently to fourth place was Mr. Harrison's "Queed," with Mr. Oppenheim's book and Mrs. Barclay's book filling out the list. With the coming of the April number, "The Winning of Barbara Worth" had to relinquish first place to "The Harvester," which had been gaining steadily since the beginning of the year, and was by this time well in the lead by a margin of nearly 100 points. In third place was a newcomer, Mr. Sherman's "He Comes Up Smiling." "Queed" was fourth, its tenth consecutive appearance in the lists, a record surpassed only a few times in all the years that we have been compiling these tables. "The Iron Woman," rapidly dropping back, was fifth, and "The Money Moon," after a month's absence, reappeared in sixth place.

Although in May the point total of "The Harvester" was slightly less than it had been the preceding month, its hold of first place was even more secure than before, for it led its closest rival by a margin of 162 points. That rival was Meredith Nicholson's "A Hoosier Chronicle," which, if it made its appearance quietly, was destined to have a more or less permanent stay. Third and fourth were "The Winning of Barbara Worth" and "He Comes Up Smiling," with two new books—Emerson Hough's "John Rawn" and Anne Douglas Sedgwick's "Tante"—in fifth and sixth places. By June, "The Harvester" had dropped to fourth place. In the lead was a newcomer, J. Breckinridge Ellis' "Fran," with 210 points. "The Hoosier Chronicle" was second, with 178, and another book by Mrs. Barclay, "Through the Postern Gate," was third. Fifth was Kate Langley Bosher's "The Man in Lonely Land," and sixth Miss Sedgwick's "Tante." For the only time in the entire year, every book on the list had a total of 100 or more points.

* It should be remembered that the Bookman refers to the month in which the list appears in the Bookman, not that of the sales. This review is one of the sales, in other words, from November, 1911, to November, 1912.

THE "BEST SELLERS" OF 1912

The July list showed a rather unusual condition of affairs. "The Harvester," which had been first in May and fourth in June, again took the lead, although its point total was only 158, the smallest point total of any first-place book during the year. Twenty-four points behind was "Fran," which, in turn, led "A Hoosier Chronicle" by seven points. "The Street Called Straight," the new story by the anonymous author of "The Inner Shrine," was fourth, Maria Thompson Daviess' "The Melting of Molly" fifth, and Miss Bosher's "The Man in Lonely Land" sixth. By August it was apparent that the comparatively obscure position of "The Street Called Straight" in the July issue had been due to the fact that it had appeared a little too late to get a fair chance, for the August list showed it in the lead, with the high point total of 356 points. At a considerable distance behind, but still with the very respectable sum total of 198 points, was Vaughan Kester's "The Just and the Unjust." "The Melting of Molly" was third, with 147 points; "The Harvester" fourth, with 108 points; and "A Hoosier Chronicle" and Mr. Oppenheim's "The Lighted Way" fifth and sixth, with 96 and 85 points, respectively.

Great as has been the point total of "The Street Called Straight" in the August issue, in September it rose to 372 points, the high-water mark of the year. Two hundred and nineteen points behind was "The Harvester," which held second place over "The Melting of Molly" by the slender margin of two points. "The Just and the Unjust" was fourth, "A Hoosier Chronicle" fifth, and the second anonymous book of the year, "To M. L. G.," sixth. In September the point total of "The Street Called Straight" was materially reduced, but its hold on first place was still secure, 238 points to 145 points for "The Melting of Molly," the runner-up of that month. A new book, "The Red Lane," by Holman Day, was third, "The Harvester" fourth, "The Just and the Unjust" fifth, and "To M. L. G." sixth.

As is very often the case, the last two months of the year brought radical changes. In first and second places were two new books—Harold Bell Wright's "Their Yesterdays," with 329 points, and F. Hopkinson Smith's "The Arm-chair at the Inn," with 169 points. But Mr. Smith's book held second place over "The Street Called Straight" by a single point only. Fourth was a newcomer, Mary Roberts Rinehart's "Where There's a

Will," with "The Harvester" and "The Melting of Molly" fifth and sixth. In referring to the lists for April, we said that they marked "Queed's" tenth consecutive appearance in the list. But by holding fifth place in November, "The Harvester" appeared in the lists for the thirteenth consecutive time. The December issue did not show a single book that had been a competitor two months before. "Their Yesterdays" was still in first place, but a dangerous second was George Barr McCutcheon's "The Hollow of Her Hand," with Rex Beach's "The Net" not far behind. Alice Hegan Rice's "A Romance of Billy-Goat Hill" was fourth, "The Arm-chair at the Inn" fifth, and Richard Dehan's "Between Two Thieves" sixth.

In the lists for 1912, twenty-seven books were represented, as against the same number for 1911, thirty-two for 1910, twenty-nine for 1909, thirty-six for 1908, thirty for 1907, thirty for 1906, twenty-nine for 1905, thirty-one for 1904, thirty-two for 1903, twenty-eight for 1902, twenty-nine for 1901, and twenty-nine for 1900. Two books, "The Street Called Straight" and "To M. L. G.," were published anonymously. No book was the result of collaboration. Eliminating the two books whose authors were anonymous, the remaining twenty-five books represented the work of fifteen men and ten women. Again eliminating "To M. L. G." and "The Street Called Straight," eighteen of the twenty-five books were written by American authors.

SELECT LIST OF LIBRARIES IN THE UNITED STATES

This list is intended to include the leading public or semi-public libraries in the United States, which have not less than 10,000 volumes, and $2,000 annual income, and spend not less than $400 annually for books. A large number of libraries of growing importance below these figures, are also included. The figures are for the last library year, which varies in different libraries, but in some cases where a library has failed to supply recent data the latest statistics available are given and designated with an asterisk (*).

PRIVATE BOOK COLLECTORS

NOTE

THIS list is intended to include the names of the leading private collectors of book specialties throughout the country. It is not, of course, fully comprehensive, but it is widely representative, both geographically and in respect to specialties of collection. It is arranged geographically in correspondence with the select list of public libraries in this volume, and usefully supplements that list. It has not been planned nor desired to include the many thousands of private libraries, but only collections on special subjects. The list is not intended to include professional libraries, such as the law books of a lawyer or the theological books of a clergyman, unless they are of a special or unusual character; but it is quite possible that private libraries or professional collections may be inadvertently included in some cases. Specialties, one or more, of the collector are indicated as far as information could be obtained. About three hundred changes, consisting of additions, corrections and omissions have been made in the list as printed in the Annual Library Annual of last year. It is requested that librarians and private collectors will both cooperate in the further correction and extension of this list for future issue.

A DIRECTORY OF BOOKSELLERS
IN THE PRINCIPAL TOWNS OF THE UNITED STATES AND CANADA

A DIRECTORY OF BOOKSELLERS

IN THE PRINCIPAL TOWNS OF THE UNITED STATES AND CANADA

THIS selective list of the bookselling trade in the principal towns of the United States and Canada, to which it is confined, may, it is thought, be more useful for practical purposes than a more extensive list including newsdealers, cigar stands, drug stores, etc., which keep on sale magazines and paper-covered books only and can scarcely be classed as bookstores. For circularizing and similar purposes such a list will be found preferable to one attempting to cover all places, big and little, and all who sell periodicals and the like. Department stores are, however, included, designated by the abbreviation D. S., when they have book departments; circulating libraries by C. L.; second-hand dealers are designated by the abbreviation S-h., and other specialties, such as Catholic, Law, Educational, etc., are designated by self-explanatory abbreviations. In case of the omission of any names properly within the scope of the list, and any other errors of commission or omission, and for the purpose of making such additions in the future as new local development may justify, the co-operation of the trade and particularly of the travelers is invited.
